

PSALM 96

Stroll forth and sing unto the Lord, a song that's fresh and new; sing unto the Lord of all, the earth within our view.

- 2 Sing unto the Lord and kneel, before His mighty name; proclaim His grace and saving health, our help from day to day.
- 3 Mark and tell of His great splendor, till all nations hear; His miracles and wonders, that every tribe will fear.
- 4 For the Lord is high and great, with might He shines in praise; He alone to be revered, not gods that men have made.
- 5 For every god in other lands, is worthless good for nought; but the Lord has made the heavens, (see the works He's wrought)!
- 6 Beauty grandeur majesty, are set upon His face; might and power all adorn, His holy sacred place.
- 7 Give to the Lord ye families, through all the nations found; give to the Lord great honor splendor, where His strength abounds.
- 8 Ascribe the splendor to the Lord, that's worthy of His name; lift your tribute as you come, into His courts with praise.
- 9 Kneel to the Lord in beauty, within His hallowed home; let all the world in great respect, before His face lie prone.
- 10 Tell the nations round about, the Lord rules everywhere; established steadfast He shall judge; all people sure and fair.
- 11 Let the heavens brighten up, the earth all spin about; with joy and ocean's crash aloud; God's fullness now to shout.
- 12 Let the plains be full of joy, and all that in them dwell; then shall the woods and forests sing, triumphant voices tell.
- 13 Before the Lord's face for He comes, in justice o'er the land; bringing forth prosperity, with firm and steady hand.